

Sold Badging Options

Sold Badging

Sold vehicles can remain in the Active Inventory, but when they do that are badged with a “Sold” label. As to whether a vehicle remains in the Active inventory, after being sold, is determined by the dealership. The dealership also determines how long the vehicle is to remain in the inventory, as sold, before being removed.

For instance, the dealer may decide that a common upfit truck be included in the inventory for a week or two, while a unique upfit vehicle remains in the inventory for weeks or months. The dealership may also decide that a pickup truck does not merit remaining in the Active inventory after being sold.

If a time is set for the sold badging of a vehicle, then the system will automatically remove the vehicle from the Active inventory when that time frame is meant.
